Preparing Higher Education for the Future

- >> Are you seeking a career in the higher education sector, as a manager, researcher, analyst, policy maker or consultant?
- >> Are you looking for a top level international master programme, supported by the European Commission?
- >> Do you want to take the lead in the future development and management of research and innovation in higher education?

Graduates from all over the world holding a first university degree can apply for scholarships to participate in the MARIHE programme. Students in MARIHE will study in at least two European countries and in China, and thus gain a truly global perspective on higher education topics.
