1. General Provisions.

Admission to the educational Master's Program " Law of International Trade and Dispute Resolution " in the direction of training 40.04.01. "Jurisprudence" (hereinafter referred to as the Program) is carried out for full-time education at places provided with budget funding, and at places with payment of tuition fees.

2. Conditions for admission to the master's program.

2.1. Competitive selection for the Program is carried out following the examination by the Examination Commission of the documents submitted by the applicant. The Admissions Committee conducts enrollment on the basis of the conclusion of the Examination Committee.

2.2. To pass the competitive selection, applicants submit two packages of documents: the first package forms the applicant's personal file and contains the documents specified in the Rules for admission to the National Research University Higher School of Economics for applicants to study programs of higher education - Master's programs (hereinafter referred to as the Rules). An applicant submits such documents to the HSE Admissions Committee in one of the ways specified in the Rules. The second package is actually the portfolio and contains the following documents that are uploaded to the applicant's personal account on the website of the HSE Admissions Committee in the form of electronic files containing scanned originals of documents or their duly certified copies:

2.2.1. diploma of higher education;

2.2.4. documents proving the work experience in the field of law (such a document can be a duly certified copy of a work book, an employment contract or a civil law contract of a compensatory nature; if the applicant presents a copy of an electronic work book, it must be accompanied by a duly certified copy of the employment contract), and also a document confirming the successful completion of an internship in the legal specialty (if any);

2.2.5. recommendation letters (of an employer, both from the field of jurisprudence and not from the field of jurisprudence and/or of a scientific and pedagogical worker), reflecting the research interests of the applicant, his qualifications, readiness and ability to study the Program;

2.3. If the applicant has several documents for one portfolio position, which can be assessed according to several different criteria for a different number of points, the highest score for one of the criteria is given for this portfolio position. Different points within any one position in the portfolio are not cumulative (for example, for the portfolio position "Diploma of Higher Education", the mark for a specialist diploma in the direction of "Economics" (15 points) and the mark for a bachelor's degree in the direction of "Jurisprudence" with honors (25 points) are not summed up and the applicant is given a score of 25 points).
