Language and Methodology Course (Module 2)

28 November 2025 - 13 February 2026 (30 academic hours)

The Language and Methodology Course for Teachers is designed to allow participants to broaden their understanding of current EFL teaching methodology and techniques while also continuing to work on their own level of English.

The course takes the form of language lessons which cover the skills of reading, writing, speaking and listening, as well as the study of vocabulary and grammar at an Advanced level (C1). Participants then discuss the activities, principles and techniques used.

The course:

- Improves participants' use of English with regard to accuracy, range, fluency and appropriacy at an Advanced level (C1);
- Raises participants' awareness of the theories, approaches, activities and techniques that are central to communicative language teaching;
- Helps participants to assess the effectiveness of current EFL methodology and techniques;
- Shows participants how to put these ideas into practice in their own teaching contexts;
- Gives participants the opportunity to share examples of best practice with other language teaching professionals.

The course is split into three modules. Each module contains:

- a focus on each of the key areas of language and skills teaching
- further methodological areas of interest
- essential, fundamental knowledge
- higher order ideas and techniques
