To whom it may concern

Daniil Skorinkin (Higher School of Economics, Moscow, Russia) stayed as a guest researcher at the University of Würzburg throughout June 2017.

During his stay, Daniil worked in our computational literary studies group. Upon arrival, he made a presentation of his research to the group and received some feedback. In the following weeks he worked on improving his research and kept reporting to the group on the progress. In the course of his work Daniil made notable headway in applying network analysis to his material, as well as in providing statistical backing for his results. Daniil's presence in our group was highly fruitful for both sides and we would be very happy to welcome him again.
