

Abstract
for HSE University's Student Research Papers
Competition in Psychology

Dear participants,

We invite you to take part in the Student Research Papers Competition in Psychology. We accept papers devoted to different areas of psychology, which contain the description of an original empirical research. The empirical research means:

- research where research materials are collected by the author;
- meta-analysis of the previous research;
- analysis of publicly available international research outcomes (i.e., WVS, EVS, ESS, etc.).

The competition papers will be assessed as per the following criteria:

- relevance and scientific novelty of research topic;
- theoretical justification of the proposed research and quality of bibliographical review;;
- adequate and high-quality design and methods, clear correlation between the proposed methods and research goals and objectives;
- quality of analysis, description and interpretation of data, well-grounded findings and conclusions;
- Coherent and logical text presentation in terms of structure, style and logic.

We wish good luck to all competition participants!
